2. Policy Objectives and Scope

2.1 Purpose – Ensure personal data is processed lawfully, transparently, and that individuals can exercise their privacy rights.

2.2 Scope – All personal data relating to customers, end-users, employees, contractors, or any identifiable individuals.

2.3 Lawful Basis & Data Minimisation

- Identify and record a lawful basis (e.g., contract, consent, legitimate interest) for each processing activity.
- Collect only data necessary for the stated purpose; review forms and APIs annually to remove unused fields.

2.4 Transparency & Privacy Notice

- Maintain an up-to-date public Privacy Notice describing categories of data, purposes, sharing, retention, and rights.
- Update the notice within 30 days of any significant change in processing.

2.5 Data-Subject Request (DSR) Workflow

- Provide a visible channel (e.g., privacy@ email or web form) for access, correction, deletion, or portability requests.
- Verify requester identity and respond within applicable legal timelines.
- Log each request, decision, and completion date in a DSR log.

2.6 Consent & Preference Management

- Obtain explicit consent where required; store timestamp and method.
- Offer easy withdrawal via self-service or support request.
- Sync marketing or product systems to reflect updated preferences within five business days.

2.7 Record Keeping & Audit Trail

- Maintain a processing-activity record covering data categories, purposes, bases, recipients, transfers, and safeguards.
- Retain DSR logs and consent records for at least three years.

3. Policy Compliance

3.1 Compliance Measurement – Quarterly review confirms: processing record current, Privacy Notice updated, DSRs closed on time.

3.2 Exceptions – Any deviation (e.g., extended DSR deadline) documented with justification and regulatory allowance.

3.3 Non-Compliance – Missed deadlines or undocumented processing triggers incident response and notification to leadership; corrective action required.

3.4 Continual Improvement – Integrate feedback from users, audits, and regulatory updates into processes and the Privacy Notice.
